Back to School, September 2017

Welcome back, RHS students! Construction is well underway to significantly improve Reynolds High School. Here are some of the changes you'll notice as you return.

- The front entrance and main office will be located in the gym complex until the main office is moved into the new counseling wing when it is completed at the end of October.
- Several science classes will meet in temporary spaces for the first weeks of school.
- Access through the short N-Hall doors will be closed for the duration of the school year.
- The gym lobby ceiling will remain exposed while upgrades are made to the sprinkler system.
- The main entrance hallway will allow passage from the main building to the gym complex, but lighting and trim will be unfinished.
- Once the new counseling wing is completed, the main office will occupy that space.
- The existing commons has been reconfigured in preparation for upcoming expansion.
- The main parking lot will continue to be restricted throughout the year (same configuration as last spring).
- All parking lots on campus will be open to staff and students (with permit) throughout the year.
- The new bus lane making direct connection with 257th off the main lot will be operational soon.

About the Bond Improvements

Reynolds High School is being renovated, including adding general and science classrooms, connecting all buildings to the main school, relocating student support services to the front entrance of the school, and expanding the cafeteria/commons. Construction is being phased to limit disruptions to school activities. Work will be complete by the end of summer, 2018.
