(FROM SUPER DUPER PUBLICATIONS)

- Young children love colorful pictures, interactive toys, games, and social time. Children are best motivated when a variety of these activities are included in their day.
- Read books together with colorful pictures and basic vocabulary. Label objects and actions as you read and ask children to point to specific pictures.
- Provide kids with the opportunity to move, sing, play, and enjoy many other fun and educational activities.
- Children add many new words to their vocabulary on a daily basis. Actions, objects, and opposites are among the first groups of words they learn.
- Children love to do things with their hands. Putting puzzles together, playing with felt boards, or have puppet shows is a great idea.
